AWFUL MASSACRE OF RUSSIAN JEWS

FIND SLAYER OF MRS. KINNAN AND WIN $500 REWARD

That Sum Will Be Paid by This Newspaper for the Arrest and Conviction of the Woman's Murderer.

The Evening World, in the hope of stimulating interest in the search for the murderer of Mrs. Alice Kinnan, offers a reward of $500 for information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of the guilty person or persons. Competition for this reward is open to members of the uniformed police force as well as to amateur detectives. In case more than one person earns and claims the reward The Evening World will pay it to the claimant designated by Police Commissioner Bingham.

It has been six days since Mrs. Kinnan's head was beaten to a pulp on the porch of the old Stenton mansion at One Hundred and Eighty-ninth street and Washington avenue. A horde of detectives has been at work on the case, but not the slightest clue of value has been discovered. In point of brutality and boldness the crime is not matched by any recent murder, and if the case is dropped and the slayer is allowed to escape the City of New York will be disgraced.

The deductive police work that has been done on the case appears to establish that the crime was committed by some one known to and to some extent trusted by Mrs. Kinnan and her aged mother, Mrs. Stephen Kinnan, the husband of the dead woman, were untraced. But the slayers have been unable to locate any other tracks.

A side mystery in this Kinnan case concerns the whereabouts of George McClusky. He is the Inspector in charge of the untraced policemen and detectives of the Bronx, has been in charge of the Central Office and his friends say that he is the best solver of mysteries in the city.

In the six days that have elapsed since the commission of the crime, Inspector George McClusky has not visited the Stenton mansion nor has he taken any active interest in the case. The newspaper reporters assigned to the story have not seen him. His office is at One Hundred and Seventy-seventh street and Batavia avenue, about half a mile from the scene of the crime, and he has a vehicle furnished by the city. Naturally, next to the question as to the identity of Mrs. Kinnan's slayer, the next in importance is "Where is George McClusky?"

A newspaper reporter, prowling about on the back porch of the Stenton mansion to-day, lifted up an old calico wrapper. Under it he found a broken shovel and an old hatchet with stains on the blade. The handle of the hatchet was broken off close to the metal part. It is recalled that the old wrapper with the shovel and hatchet under it have been lying on the porch since last Friday night.

Many of the letters found among Mrs. Kinnan's possessions yesterday were written to her by the old contractor, Clancy, who died mysteriously in the Stenton mansion two months ago. These letters establish that she expected to marry Clancy if she could get a divorce from her husband.

Justice Leventritt, of the Supreme Court, who denied the injunction asked for by gas consumers, pro forma, because of the fight between the people and the gas monopoly over the recent rate, granted a reargument to-day in the case of Dr. Alexander R. Grossman, and at the close of the argument renewed his former decision and granted an injunction restraining the Consolidated Gas Company from removing the meter and the gas.

When, after the law making the rate for gas 80 cents a thousand feet went into effect, Dr. Grossman received a bill in which the old rate of $1 was charged he refused to pay. The company's collector threatened to remove the meter and the company declared it would not serve him unless he paid.

Ex-Judge John F. Dillon, for the company, contended that, as the question was under consideration in the United States Court, it would be improper for the State court to pass upon it. He said that the United States Circuit Court was hearing the whole question as between the gas companies and the public, while if an injunction was granted it would involve the gas companies in hundreds, if not thousands of litigations and the courts would be clogged.

Justice Leventritt granted the injunction asked for on the strength of that dictum.

Ex-Judge Dillon said an appeal would be taken at once.

At least one consumer has got even with the gas monopoly. Samuel H. Drabbin and Abert M. Katz, of No. 256 Church street, did it.

THE EVENING WORLD WILL PAY $500 REWARD

For information which will lead to arrest and conviction of the person or persons who killed Mrs. ALICE KINNAN in her home at the old STENTON Mansion, at 189th St. and Washington Ave., in the Bronx. SUCH INFORMATION SHOULD BE SENT EITHER TO THE EVENING WORLD or to the Chief of the New York City Detective Bureau, Police Headquarters. If more than one person earns and claims the reward THE EVENING WORLD WILL PAY IT TO THE PERSON DESIGNATED BY THE COMMISSIONER OF POLICE.

Bomb Thrown by Jewish Anarchist Into Corpus Christi Parade Leads to Riots in Which Hundreds Are Killed and Wounded.

SHOPS DESTROYED AND INMATES SLAIN BY MOBS.

City of Bialystok, Scene of Slaughter, Important Trade Centre—Christians in Parade, Angered by Attack, Wreak Terrible Vengeance.

BIALYSTOK, Russia, June 14.—A Jewish Anarchist threw a bomb into the Corpus Christi procession which was in progress here to-day and killed and wounded many persons.

In consequence of the bomb-throwing the Christians attacked and massacred the Jews, burning and demolishing their shops.

Hundreds of persons were killed or wounded during the massacre.

Bialystok, or Byelostok, as it is sometimes called, is a thriving town of 75,000 people, situated about fifty miles southwest of Grodno and near the junction of the St. Petersburg-Warsaw and the Odessa railroads. It is a large trade centre.

CUT OFF HIS GAS, HAD TO PAY DAMAGES.

At least one consumer has got even with the gas monopoly. Samuel H. Drabbin and Abert M. Katz, of No. 256 Church street, did it.

The Consolidated Gas Company cut off Katz's gas at the meter because, as they claimed, he owed them $5.50 on an old bill contracted when one of the members of the firm occupied another store.

Drabbin & Katz opened the new store last February. In May the Consolidated demanded payment of that old bill, and because Mr. Katz denied that he owed the company, cut off the gas. The firm sued for damages.

HARRY MORTON IS CONVICTED ON PERJURY CHARGE

Harry Morton, the former Vice Squad plainer, was found guilty of perjury in the Supreme Court before Justice Scott late this afternoon. A recommendation for mercy was made by the jury.

Morton's perjury, on which three counts were brought, was in giving false testimony regarding the Bertie chair at the Coroner's inquest at the District Attorney's office and at the Coroner's trial. Morton swore on all three occasions that Earl Bradford, the master of the ship, gave him a check for $100,000 on the night of the fire and that he had used the money to pay for the chair.
